

Representative partner for a consulting company in Japan

We are a well-established and specialized German-Japanese consultant, focusing on innovative technologies with one focus on the field of renewable energy, energy efficiency and environmental technology.

We are looking for a partnership in Japan (m/f) who will support our German clients and their partners in Japan (and vice versa). As our representative in Japan, you will be responsible for introducing new products and technologies to potential Japanese partners and extending and building up customer relations, for the development of new business in Japan and Germany.

If your expertise and contacts match with our long-time experience and broad network, a strong and efficient partnership can be developed.

Requirements

Conceptual and strategic marketing capability, in combination with a convincing personality and experience in the Japanese business environment is desired.

Knowledge in technical and energy-related fields is advantageous.

We offer the possibility of an independent, self-responsible and proactive work.

Native level Japanese and a good command in English are a must, knowledge of German is a plus.
